

Course Title: Middle School (MS) Home Economics

Description:

Students will enjoy practical teaching and fun activities, and labs while learning, preparing for life and taking care of themselves. Home economics and consumer science is an important part of good health, healthy living, and community membership. Our goal is to prepare students to live independently while acting as responsible adults – joyful in life, supporting themselves financially, and contributing to healthy family relationships.

Bellevue Tutorial's HS Home Economics class will cover the typical home economics topics such as culinary arts, home and clothing care. Additionally, students will address adult living and life topics like basic management and planning processes, organization, decision-making skills, communication, managing time, and goals.
